

I loved the way you stepped us through what you were playing and what instrument was playing it. I enjoyed your magical performance and I hope you can come back and visit us and many other schools as well. Thanks and come again soon.

Our students were delighted to experience the musical talents of the Adelaide Youth Orchestra.

Students were able to acquaint with instruments and marvel in their collaborative harmonies.

Who better to introduce young people to orchestral music than their peers?

Every year Adelaide Youth Orchestras perform in schools and community venues across the city, opening the world of orchestral and ensemble music to children who may never have had the opportunity to hear an orchestra play.

This is an incredibly enriching experience for audiences as well as AdYO's 250 accomplished young musicians.

To witness the faces of children as they see and hear an ensemble of instruments for the first time is inspiring and often deeply moving. To watch them discover how all these individual sounds are woven together and see their curiosity sparked as they join in by dancing, asking questions, or waving their imaginary batons brings music alive.

These formative experiences can sow the seeds of a life-long love of music and serve as a catalyst for young people to take up a musical instrument for themselves.

But it takes time, money and considerable resources to move an ensemble of musicians, their instruments and equipment into informal settings, so we are seeking your support to help keep our music moving.

We need to raise $10,000 to help fund our schools and community performance program.

Your generous donation will help AdYO take the excitement of orchestral music to thousands of children and young people in 2017.

I found this performance very entertaining as well as interesting. It really inspired me to play a member of the string family, which I wish to do in the future.
